(BY ARTHUR APPLIN)

CHAPTER

The sun shined up bright and rained his eyes. As he took his hands from his face he saw there were blood upon them. He started—he was around him in a bewildered way.

He was sitting in the middle of a road which was across a great meadow. "Whatever way he looked he only saw purple heather, here and there patches of yellow gorse and occasionally a mass of granite boulders or a pile of rocks blocking the line of the road as though they had been vomited from the bowels of the earth.

Again the man rubbed his eyes, then frowned in the pocket of his coat, for a handkerchief with which he wiped his hands and face. He felt that he was bleeding freely, his back hurt him when he tried to rise, and his right ankle was swollen and horribly painful. He rose to his knees and slowly turned round to see what was the large motor-car brawling into the road. He noticed that the car was a large black limousine with a top that was half torn away, one of the lamps smashed and the bonnet slightly crumpled. He remained on his knees, staring at it, trying to remember.

He looked up, and then, to his surprise, strange silence which can be heard in hell, seemed to come from the great meadow. The car was not running but it was not moving. He saw the engine of the car was not running but it was not moving. He saw the engine of the car was not running but it was not moving.

He pressed his hands to his forehead, trying to remember. But his mind was a blank, as was his face, and he sat there, staring at the car, which was silent as the great mountain.

He thought of the car, and then he remembered the car. He remembered the car, and then he remembered the car. He remembered the car, and then he remembered the car.

He started the engine, they seemed to work all night; the car was not running but it was not moving. He started the engine, they seemed to work all night; the car was not running but it was not moving.

He limped to the back of the car and sat down on the road. He saw something, half hidden by the foliage, on the edge of the ditch, something which chilled his blood and made him draw his breath quickly with a harsh sobbing sound.

It was something human. A pair of arms stretched out upon the dusty road, the outline of a body showing through the grass. It was the body of a man. He knelt beside it; it was evidently the chauffeur of the car, and he was dead.

The man was dead. For a long time he sat crouched beside the body, and he felt a cold shiver running down his spine. He felt that he was not alone, that he was being watched. He felt that he was being watched.

The Test

How, the president of the Pat Man's Club was asked, did you prevent fraud among your applicants for membership? "Didn't know much to try to do that went up to the standard right?"

Yes, the portly officer replied, but it was an eye. Anybody who was presented in person at the Pat's Building, Fifth Floor. There was a elevator. The applicant climbed the five flights of stairs. At the top was a man who asked you if you were looking for the Pat Man's Club?

The man's office is on the first floor. Your application is rejected. We refuse to take any man who can't climb a flight of stairs!

A Future Financier

Mr. exalted young Todd, having been into the house, Mr. Johnson said he would give me a penny if I told her what you had about her. I never heard of such a thing! answered his mother indignantly. You are a very good boy not to have told I wouldn't have her this I even mentioned her. Here's an apple, come for being such a wise little kid!

What should I think, I am, when she showed me the penny I told her that what you said was something at all and worth anything at all.

Tough on the Creditors

I say, old chap, can you lend me a ten spot?

Sure. Here you are.

Thanks awfully, I am indebted to you for that but I can ever hope to repay.

Mr. Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America Cup has been accepted. It is to be hoped that this will be a help between the Cup and the Liptons.

There is no poisonous ingredient in Johnson's Cure and it can be used without danger of injury.

Schoolma'am—Now I want all the children to look at Tommy's hands and observe how clean and bright they are. If all of you can do as much with your hands, Tommy's papa will tell us why he keeps them so nice.

Tommy—Yes, ma. Ma makes me wash the breakfast dishes every morning.

The Menu Lacking

The rumbling phantoms called at a country inn for dinner. The fresh air had given him a good appetite and he did ample justice to roast beef and vegetables.

This course finished, he asked for the sweets to be brought in.

The serving-ladies, in their white aprons, came forward with a silver tray. The gentlemen were a little surprised.

Dear me, exclaimed Miss Wreath, it is a pity that a good dinner should be marred by such a poor dessert.

Indignant, she drew out her handkerchief and wiped her eyes.

Hoover—I underwent an operation yesterday.

Easy-makes—You surprise me. Was it very serious?

Hoover—Had a growth removed from my head.

Easy-makes—My goodness! And here you are so stout and strong and well.

Hoover—Yes; I only had my hair cut.

Miss Passy—You may sneer at me, but they're faithful anyway. I rather like a dog that does some work.

Mr. Sharpe—Well, well, some men are born lucky.

BURNING OLD LOVE-LETTERS

Chinamen Consider Them Sacred and Preserve the Ashes

The Chinese look upon every bit of writing and print as Chinese character as sacred. They would consider it a sacrilege to pass on written or printed paper, or to use discarded manuscripts or newspapers as wrapping for provisions.

The fact that the Chinese characters were used by his ancestor caused him to be highly venerated by the Chinese, more particularly those characters which were used by the Chinese.

The furnace stands before the altar of a Joss, or god, and every day the Chinese burn their old letters and newspapers. The paper which has been brought there.

Long Hair and Short Pay

Literary endeavors are not always rewarded to highly as some may think. According to this story from a German newspaper, a novelist of longer hair than pocketbook recently met a friend on the street.

"Congratulations," his friend said warmly. "And now you can get a good thing out of it."

The writer's face fell. No, he replied, I should have to sell two novels for that.

Nothing more was said until both of their friends, when Arthur calmly remarked: I will take my hair.

The newspaper can place the business you have and you want before the eyes of buyers, who see what they want and knowing where to find it, look up the wide-awake merchant who wants him to close and see him. Success in these days of sharp competition calls for eternal vigilance. You cannot keep a hush down.

THE "DAILY MIRROR'S" TRIBUTE

Recently a number of copies of "The Daily Mirror," London, Eng., were taken in town, the same containing several views of people and scenes in Mirror. The pictures were taken by Albert Wyndham, a correspondent for the same paper and a short article also appears in the same issue, as follows: "This go-ahead Canadian town, which paid The Daily Mirror the compliment of adopting the name 'Mirror' three years ago, is full of surprises. At that time it was hardly a town, but very quickly 577 sites were sold by auction for $50,330.

To-day Mirror is well on the way to be a town of great importance. Its population of 500 is steadily growing, streets and avenues have been laid out, shops have been built and there is not a business man, the mayor, Mr. H. J. Raymer, told me, who has not done exceptionally well here.

Beautifully situated on the eastern shore of Buffalo Lake, which is 22 miles long and 8 miles broad, Mirror has many natural advantages that increase business and ensure health for all.

The new town is a divisional point on the Grand Trunk Railway, between Edmonton and Calgary. The beautiful Buffalo lake provides excellent fishing, boating, bathing and shooting, and plans have just been completed for building a fine hotel overlooking its waters. Good links and the construction of a good motor-road from Mirror to the lake are also projected.

But it is in its spacious avenues that Mirror makes you feel back "at home." Three of the avenues are named after three directors of The Daily Mirror, and there is a White-frills-boulevard and a Fleet-street, which make one sigh to think that London's Fleetstreet and Whitefrills street can never know the joy and light of their namesakes."

A MISLEADING STATEMENT

Moore Jaw, Sask., July 29.—The City Council has passed a resolution unanimously condemning a local paper, The Evening Times, for its front page editorial on the financial conditions of the city.

In part, the resolution reads as follows: "That this Council desires to place on record its strong disapproval on the article published recently, owing to its gross misstatements of local conditions, wherein the credit of the city and its business men is impugned, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Board of Trade with the request that support be given this motion with a view to restoring confidence in the city which has been seriously impaired by the publication aforesaid."

Moore Jaw, Sask., July 29.—Mayor Pascoe emphatically denies the report published in a local paper announcing that the city's bankers have refused to accept cheques drawn by the city. "Any inconvenience that has been experienced in connection in the city's financial arrangements has been caused by our inability to dispose of the city's debentures," said the Mayor.

FARMERS REQUIRING HELP

Arrangements have been made this year for the sending out of harvest help on a special cheap rate to various points in Alberta from the city of Calgary instead of direct from Winnipeg. R. J. Daley, Publicity Commissioner for Alberta at Winnipeg has given the necessary authority for the issuing of the 1c a mile rate to the Central Office of the United Farmers of Alberta through their General Secretary, P. P. Woodbridge. The fact that the limit was only made known at the very last moment and is only for the period between the 1st and 15th of August makes it almost impossible for each of the various branches of the U. F. A. to be communicated with individually and it is hoped that those requiring help for the harvest will send their applications at once direct to the Secretary of the United Farmers of Alberta at Calgary, when the men will be despatched to the various points as rapidly as possible.

LASH FOR WIFE BEATERS

Toronto Authorities Giving Brutes Some of Their Own Medicine

The new method which the Toronto police are employing to deal with wife-beaters, namely, sending them down for a short term and giving them a taste of the lash, is expected to have a noticeable effect on the number of cases of this kind which come up in Police Court.

A subsection of the Criminal Code, says that "Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to five years' imprisonment or to be whipped who assaults or sexually or beats his wife or any other female, and thereby occasions her actual bodily harm."

Although this subsection is an amendment which came into force in 1904, wife-beaters usually got off with three-day terms minus the lash. Immediately on assuming his duties as head of the Morality Department, work on this amendment with the result that the first wife-beater who came up before Magistrate Denison received 14 strokes and the shock of his life when, after hearing a thirty-day sentence imposed, he broke to the fact that he was to get ten lashes as well.

WEDDING

A midsummer wedding of much interest which occurred recently in McLeod, Alta., was that of Mr. Lloyd Wellington, son of W. F. Puffer, M.P.P., and Mrs. Puffer, of Lacombe, and Miss Sarah Grace Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bowen, Twenty-first street. A. D. Richards officiated. The ceremony, which took place in front of a massive floral embankment in the drawing room the latter being artistically bedecked with an abundance of roses and carnations.

The bride, who was given away by her father looked charming in a rich white satin gown covered with chinchilla lace, the bridesmaid Miss Bella Bowen, being beautifully attired in a white point d'esprit dress. The bride carried a gorgeous bouquet of white roses and ferns and the bridesmaid pink carnations. Miss Hattie Bowen played very sweetly Lohengrin's wedding march and Master C. Ferguson, the bright young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ferguson, carried in the ring on a silver salver.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome set of mink furs and to the bridesmaid and pianist, beautiful cameo and pearl brooches respectively.

The splendid display of costly gifts, among them a silver tea service from the parents of the groom and a substantial cheque from the bride's parents, testified more strongly than anything else could have done to the popularity of the young couple.

Among the guests who were present were Mr. W. F. Puffer, M.P.P., Lacombe; Mr. and Mrs. John Kaiser, Rev. A. D. and Mrs. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ferguson.

THE NEW TEN COMMANDMENTS

1. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, thou nor thy sons nor thy daughters.
2. Thou shalt patronize thine own merchants, and they shall patronize thee.
3. Thou shalt not ask for credit, as goods cost much money and the retailer's heart is wearied with bills. Thrice blessed is a man who pays cash.
4. Thou shalt employ thine own mechanics and consider him that is thy neighbor above him that dwelleth in a strange town.
5. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices for any influence, for behold gold is in thy heart, and the retailer readeth it like an open book.
6. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thy town, thine own people.
7. Thou shalt spend thy earnings at home that they may return from whence they came.
8. Thou shalt suffer the voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns chide thee, hearken not unto them, for thou mayest be deceived.
9. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town where in thou dwellest, but speak well of it to all men.

HORSES IN WINTER

Can be Kept on Straw as Well as on Hay

Professor J. H. Sheppard, of the North Dakota Agricultural College, answering a question recently about wintering horses on straw, says: "The North Dakota station did a considerable amount of work in horse feeding a number of years ago and made many trials with oat straw, as compared with hay, for roughage. In the trial it was found that some horses did about as well on it as they did on hay. While others were very much harder to carry, chiefly because their appetites for roughage were too light to cause them to eat enough of it. Aside from those dairy animals there was little trouble in keeping them up on oat straw as roughage."

The oat straw used was that of a normal season, which was coarser and more woody than that which had been obtained this year. The trial consisted of a period of sixty days feeding with oats as the grain ration and a similar period with oats and hay, and sixty days feeding with a mixture of half and half straw and shorts by weight with hay compared with sixty days feeding hay and straw.

During the first thirty days winter conditions were present and the horses were used only about enough for good exercise. During the second thirty days they were worked at harvesting, ditching and seedling and last thirty of that work the last half of the month. The horses receiving oats and hay as a ration required nine and one-third pounds of oats with hay to carry them, while those on oats and straw consumed eleven and one-half pounds of oats per day. During the thirty days that they had light work, the horses on hay gained 156 pounds and the three on straw 168 pounds. During the thirty days when they had heavy work one-half of the time, those on hay lost 346 pounds and those on straw 416 pounds.

The similar lots of horses fed with a mixture of half and half straw and shorts, gained during the winter conditions, 91 pounds when fed hay, and 83 pounds when fed straw. When they were on the straw ration with heavy work for one-half of the month they lost 223 pounds, and on the hay ration 225 pounds.

These results indicate that horses can be carried almost as successfully on straw as roughage as they can on hay, provided enough additional grain is given them to supply them with sufficient nourishment. The additional grain required is about one-third if the feeder has facilities for chaffing the straw and will moisten it and mix the grain fed with it during the season when the animals are required to do very little work, a smaller amount of grain will carry them.

MIRROR WINS TWO-MAN CHAMPIONSHIP

Here's hopin' Estell and Cairns repeat the dose next year only in larger quantities. Cairns, carried off the high-est cash prize in the evening was Estell, second, and Cowdery third. Others who shared in the money were, Motley, Barrett, Tate, Pollard, D. A. Heines, Lawrence, Sikes, Allen and A. M. Heines. Ray Simpson took part in the fourth event and was placed amongst the winners.

The winning of the "St. John's Cup" by Messrs. Estell and Cairns is certainly a feather in their cap. It is extremely gratifying to think that the trophy will remain in Mirror for the first year of its existence, at any rate, and the winners are entitled to the many congratulations of which they have been the recipients.

G. T. P. STATION AT CALGARY

Calgary, Aug. 9th.—Work on the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific line into the city is continuing steadily, and judging from the grading being done on the barracks ground the station will be built there, whatever the cost may be.

"It is foolish to think it will be built anywhere else" said a local man, who is in a position to know, to The News-Telegram Saturday. "There is nothing in the rumor that the station will be built on the Eau Claire property. When one knows the facts of the case that rumor is absurd."

"It would cost millions for right-of-way to that property, and there is absolutely no likelihood that the G. T. P. will go to that expense, even if it is more trouble and expense than at first thought to use the barracks property."

"The barracks site is an ideal one for a station. The only thing is, that it is too bad Calgary cannot have a station here. That would save the people a lot of bother. But, as for the barracks property, it is practically in the heart of the city; only a short distance from the business center."—The News-Telegram.

LOCAL NEWS

A great many Mirror people are taking advantage of Buffalo Lake this summer and picnics galore are the order of the day. The extremely hot weather of the past two weeks has had a tendency to make them search for a cool spot and no better one could be found in the whole of Alberta. Several parties of campers are also located on the shores and it will only be a question of time when cottages will be erected clear around the lake.

Wainwright—Enclosed in two heavy crates, with no room for them to turn around, the two Buffalo, presented to the Phoenix Park, Dublin, started on their long journey to Ireland last week.

The Mirror baseball team will probably forward a challenge for the Brewery Cup which is now held by Alix. Trochu has already challenged for the mug and the locals will await the outcome before doing anything definite.

M. Meckenburg, A. M., the only university graduate Sight Specialist in Alberta, 315 Jasper E. Phone 5225, Edmonton.

A G. T. P. station agent is now installed in the depot at Trochu.

Stettler.—R. A. Begg the popular hog buyer is laid up with blood poisoning, due to a hog biting him on the hand. He will soon be around again.

Come on in, the water's fine.

Boost Mirror and thereby improve conditions for yourself. If you are a property owner every advance is an advantage and in the growth and development everybody is a sharer. Have a good word to say of and to the people who have invested their money in someone that help the place and without which the town would wither. Instead of a whine because they don't do better sing out an optimistic note from the other side of your mouth. Better to be a "conqueror" than a "creeper" and a few dollars invested in some useful and workable enterprise will change your relations very materially.

South Buffalo Lake

(From Nemo)

Haying is now the order of the day in this locality, and hay stacks are springing up all over the crop of grass this year being good.

Grandpa Sorum met with a painful accident recently; catching his hand on a projecting nail and tearing it badly between the thumb and first finger. He was taken into Alix and had it surgically dressed, and is progressing nicely though still under treatment, and compelled to still use a sling for his hand. Grandpa, though he has reached a ripe old age, is one of those energetic old folk that has to be rattling at something all ways; but he will have to be goodnude with his injured hand. His many friends are glad it was no worse. S. B. L. can't spare him yet.

M. O. Sorum moved into his new house last week, and it is certainly a credit to the architect and builder, Mr. Pemberton, and a fine addition to our neighbourhood. Dancie rumor says it cost him many "Simoleons."

R. E. Fell had a valuable yearling filly cut up with wire last week. He informed our correspondent that he had hopes of saving the animal yet from being used up entirely. W. Jaack also lost a valuable horse last week; cause of death presumably heart disease.

R. Pugh supplied Stettler with a load of fresh fish on Friday last, and the good people of Alix with one on Saturday.

The dealers in Alix evidently like to secure the best going for the citizens. R. E. Fell recently disposed of four nice two-year olds to the butcher there; and they were all kept for home consumption. Alix citizens can appreciate nice tender meat, as well as those in Calgary and other towns.

Among the other industries established south of the lake we have a hog motor agency. A prominent sign easily locates the place to intending purchasers.

Miss Bessie Loyd is staying with Mrs. W. Jaack, and will, we understand attend the Ripley school during the ensuing term.

J. H. Sorum and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Barritt.

After all things are considered, an "auto" is not to be despised, you can take an extra forty winks on Sunday morning, and still make Nevis in time for Sunday School.

EXPRESS RATES GOOD FOR MERCHANTS

Now that a reduction on express rates has gone into effect in Western Canada. It would be well that the retail merchants get thoroughly posted on the details of the new figures, and shelve will be of great benefit to the merchants, many of whom receive goods frequently by express. No doubt merchants will be able to avail themselves of the express services more than in the past, since the rates are more favorable. The new rate will be especially of interest to dealers, who have occasion to order for quick delivery goods which they may not have in stock, and which for customers may be waiting. Prompt delivery by express would enable merchants to compete more effectively with the mail order houses. Often when customers find out that the articles they want are not in the local store they send away to the city for them, and probably even the merchant does not consider that he might as well get the article for his customers himself, and thus give his patrons a service that will be much appreciated.
